

SUPPORTING THE COMMUNITY IN ABERDEEN

SOCIAL VALUE IN ACTION

Background

At MAC we care about the impact we make in the community and the legacy we leave in the areas we work. Our Social Value Manager, Sue has established excellent links in Aberdeen with the council and community groups in the area and continues to support charity organisations.

Outcomes & Evidence of Impact

She can be seen here working with a wonderful charity, 'Somebody Cares'. Founder Jenny Taylor (pictured) met Sue while supporting the charity by assisting in the food bank and sorting clothing for distribution in and around Aberdeen City to those in need. Jenny and Sue discussed how the charity has evolved over the last twenty years and how the government would like to replicate it in other areas.

MAC Roofing are currently working with the Aberdeen Framework to improve Social Housing in the area by renovating properties within the county borough. As part of our social value commitment we encourage our workforce to support charitable organisations like this one, along with community events held in the area. This is not only true in Aberdeen but is also the case when working our other projects across the UK.

Somebody Cares is a growing charity that employs approximately 40 people who support the Aberdeen Community in need. However, it also relies heavily on volunteers, some of whom can be seen here working with Sue. These volunteers work every day at the charity, packing and delivering food parcels, sorting clothing, carrying out house clearances and supporting members of the public who come to the charity for help. Any outside assistance is obviously greatly appreciated.
